November

November is the 11th month in the Gregorian calendar but did you know that November was named for the ninth (novem) month in the early Roman calendar?

November in Canada is a host to a significant day: Remembrance Day. Next week's issue will share more information about how this day is acknowledged in Canada.

November weather on the other hand, is not usually something that is celebrated. Typically, November weather is cold with maximum daytime temperatures around -1°C (31°F) and minimum nighttime temperatures around -10°C (14°F) and low monthly snow/rainfall. Get ready to dress warm!

Wellness and Health supports for students

Taking care of yourself is important.

The University of Saskatchewan Student Health and Wellness group offers self-assessment tools, workshops and support on their website.

Did you remember to post your UCI information in PAWS?

Your UCI appears on official documents you get from Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada (IRCC), such as your study permit, work permit, or visa. Learn more about what a UCI is.

Save your UCI number in PAWS before November 1st!

To save your UCI, select “Edit” in the Bio section of the My Profile area in PAWS.

Learning Resources and Student Workshop
